

Keeping in Touch

by Greg Hinds

YOUR LOCAL is doing its best to keep you informed on what is taking place across all the Local 420 bargaining units. The easiest way for us to do this is via email.

At the beginning of each month, your staff provides me with information and local activities across the state to keep you up to date on what is happening. I do my best to keep these emails to a minimum. If you get more than two in a month from me, it is because something out of the ordinary is taking place in your unit or worksite.

Some of you are not receiving these email updates. There is one of two issues for this.

- The first, and most obvious, is that we simply do not have your email address on file.
- Second, if your email address ends with centurylink.net, centurytel.net, tds.net, hughes.net, or mtc.net you may have noticed that you have not received any emails since the beginning of March. We have been having problems with these email providers marking emails from me as spam. The easiest solution to this would be for you to contact your email provider and have them add @local420wi.org to their safe list. Another option is to provide us with a different personal email address for communication.

I have provided a member contact information form with this newsletter. If you have any new contact information, please share it with the local. You can either email the relevant information to our Membership Administrator, Jeanine, at jeanine@local420wi.org, or call her at the office, 414-570-0420.

We obviously have your home mailing address if you are getting this newsletter. In that case, save this as a reminder for any future changes. ■
